AISHA BOWEN,

Plaintiff,

vs.

TARGET CORPORATION and
DOES 1 through 50, inclusive,

Defendants.

No. 2:16-cv-02587-JGB-MRW

JOINT STIPULATION TO STAY MEAL-
PERIOD CLAIMS IN THIS ACTION
PENDING OUTCOME OF MEAL-PERIOD
CLAIMS IN *THOMPSON V. TARGET
CORP.

Courtroom: Courtroom 1
3470 Twelfth Street,
Riverside, California
Judge: Hon. Jesus G. Bernal

1 Plaintiff Aisha Bowen (“Plaintiff”) and defendant Target Corporation (“Target”),
2 acting by and through their attorneys of record, hereby stipulate as follows:

3 1. In this action, Plaintiff asserts the following causes of action:

4 a. In her first cause of action, plaintiff alleges that Target failed to 5 provide non-exempt Target employees in California with meal
6 periods. On this basis, Plaintiff seeks to recover a meal-period
7 premium of one hour of wages for each violation pursuant to
8 California Labor Code section 226.7.

9 b. In her third cause of action, Plaintiff alleges that Target failed to pay
10 overtime wages, based in part on Target’s alleged failure to provide
11 meal periods.

12 c. In her fourth cause of action, Plaintiff alleges that Target failed to pay
13 minimum wages, based in part on Target’s alleged failure to provide
14 meal periods.

15 d. In her fifth cause of action, Plaintiff alleges that Target failed to pay
16 employees whose employment with Target terminated all of their final
17 wages, based in part on Target’s alleged failure to pay meal-period
18 premiums.

19 e. In her sixth cause of action, Plaintiff alleges that Target failed to 20 maintain required records based, in part, on Target’s alleged failure to 21 provide meal periods and pay meal-period premiums.

22 f. In her seventh cause of action, Plaintiff alleges that Target failed to 23 render accurate wage statements based, in part, on Target’s alleged 24 failure to pay meal-period premiums.

25 g. In her ninth cause of action, Plaintiff seeks equitable restitution of 26 those meal-period premiums under the unfair competition law, Cal.
27 Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200 et seq.

28 h. In her tenth cause of action, Plaintiff seeks civil penalties under the

JOINT STIPULATION TO STAY
MEAL-PERIOD CLAIMS

U.S.D.C., C.D. Cal., No. 2:16-cv-02587-JGB-MRW

1 California Labor Code Private Attorneys General Act (“PAGA”), Cal.
 2 Lab. Code § 2698 et seq., based, in part, on the same allegations as
 3 her first, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, and ninth causes of action.
 4 Plaintiff asserts these causes of actions on behalf of herself and all non-exempt
 5 employees who worked at California Target stores from December 7, 2011, to the 6 present, or some subset period of time. These claims (to the extent they are premised on 7 Target’s alleged failure to provide meal periods and pay meal-period premiums) are
 8 collectively referred to in this stipulation as the “Bowen meal-period claims.”

9 2. Target denies Plaintiff’s allegations and claims.

10 3. Stacy Thompson (“Thompson”) previously commenced an action against 11 Target, which is currently pending before this Court, entitled “Stacy Thompson, Plaintiff
 12 v. Target Corporation and Does 1 through 10, Defendants,” No. CV-16-00839-JGB
 13 (MRW). Like Plaintiff here, Thompson has asserted the following causes of action:

14 a. In one cause of action, Thompson alleges that Target failed to provide
 15 meal periods, for which Thompson seeks to recover a meal-period
 16 premium of one hour of wages for each violation pursuant to
 17 California Labor Code section 226.7.

18 b. In another cause of action, Thompson alleges that Target owes
 19 equitable restitution of those meal-period premiums under the unfair
 20 competition law, Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200 et seq.

21 c. In other causes of action, Thompson seeks penalties under PAGA
 22 based, in part, on Target’s alleged failure to provide meal periods and 23 pay meal-period premiums.

24 Thompson asserts these causes of action on behalf of herself and hourly, non-exempt
 25 employees, whom Target employed in its California stores since December 22, 2007, or 26 some subset period of time. These claims (to the extent they are premised on Target’s 27 alleged failure to provide meal periods and pay meal-period premiums) are collectively
 28 referred to in this stipulation as the “Thompson meal-period claims.”

1 4. Target denies these allegations and claims.

2 5. On November 16, 2015, while the Thompson action was pending in the
3 Superior Court of California in and for the County of Los Angeles, the Superior Court
4 granted Thompson's motion for class certification with respect to her meal-period class
5 claims under California Labor Code section 226.7(b) and Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code
6 § 17200 et seq.

7 6. On February 5, 2016, Target removed the Thompson action to this Court
8 based on diversity of citizenship jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. section 1332 (as amended
9 by CAFA, Pub. L. 109-2, § 4(a), 119 Stat. 9), and section 1441(a). On March 7, 2016,
10 Thompson filed her motion to remand. This Court has not yet rendered a decision on 11 Thompson's motion to remand.

12 7. The parties here anticipate that the ongoing litigation of the Thompson meal-
13 period claims, whether before this Court if the pending motion to remand is denied or 14 before the Superior Court if the pending motion to remand is granted, will impact
15 significantly the course of the Bowen meal-period claims. Staying the Bowen meal-
16 period claims pending the resolution of the Thompson meal-period claims therefore 17 would conserve the parties' and the Court's resources.

18 8. Based on the foregoing, the parties agree and respectfully request that the 19 Bowen meal-period claims should be stayed for all purposes beginning on the date that
20 the Court approves this stipulation and pending final resolution of the Thompson meal-
21 period claims, whether by this Court or the Superior Court. In the event that the 22 Thompson meal-period claims are decertified, the parties agree that the stay on the Bowen
23 meal-period claims shall be lifted.
